Over forty years ago, Drs. Gustavo Bounous and Patricia Kongshavn discovered the role of a specially-prepared whey protein isolate, now famous as Immunocal, in raising glutathione, thereby maintaining immune function.* Immunocal has achieved global recognition through patents issued in the U.S., Canada, and many other countries around the world.

It all starts with your immune system. Maintaining good immune function is linked to healthier aging and resistance to health challenges. Immunocal goes beyond health, it also enhances your strength and performance for improved quality of life.*

Glutathione. Master antioxidant.

Glutathione is critical for healthy immune function. This essential molecule is present in all our cells. For a variety of reasons including aging, lack of exercise, or over-training, poor diet, stress, and health challenges, the ability to produce our body’s master antioxidant becomes reduced. This is why Immunocal is so important.
